

From the Massachusetts Ploughous THE FARMER.

"The Farmer's life 's the life for ME"— We love its quiet scenery: We love its shades, it hills and dales: We love its shades, it hills and dales;
We love the cheerful fireside tales;
We love to tend the flocks and herds;
We love the sweet salubrious air;
We love the prospect, wide and fair;
We love the prospect, wide and fair;
We love to plough, we love to slow;
We love to gather, love to mow;
We love to gather, love to mow;
We love to the art HE TINKLING BELL;
We love to tread the grassy lown; We love to tread the grassy havn; Along the brook—among the corn; We love—the whole, but can't reheared His pleasures ail, in prose or verse.

> From the Ladies' National Magazine. THE COUNTRY GIRL. BY MRS. B. F. THOMAS.

Fair as the woodland flowers, she loves When smiling through the dew;
A kindly word she has for all,
A heart forever true:
Her days are spent among the fields,

Or by the sunny streams.

A book her constant friend, the lives
In pure and lofty dreams! Her charity, like light from heaven, It blesses all around;
The good she does flows silently,

As rivers under ground:
No thought of empty show and pomp
Disturb her solitude— The tiwn may have as beauteous once, Eut surely tow so good.

THE FARMER .- It does one's heart good to see a merry round faced farmer. So independent, and yet so free from vanities, and pride. So arch, and yet so industrious-so patient and persevering in his calling, and yet so kind, social and obliging. There are a thousand noble traits about his character. He is generally hospitable -eat and drink with him, and he won't set a mark on you and sweat it out of you with double compound interest, as some I know will-you are welcome. He will do you kindness without expecting a return by way of compensation—it is not so with every body. He is generally more honest and sincere-less disposed to deal in low and underhand cunning, than many I could name. He gives society its best support—is the firmest pillar that supports the edifice of government— he is the lord of nature. Look at him in his back if he pleases.

Butter is produced by the union of oxigen with the cream, and more butter will be made, and quicker, and of a finer flavor, if you have an aperture of proper size.

One experiment will convince you of this. BEEF, MILK. BUTTER AND CHEESE .- It is the received opinion with many farmers, that it requires as much food from either pasture or stall feeding, to produce one hundred pounds of beef as it does for fifteen hundred quarts of milk, or one of rats and mice. Price, 50 cents per box. hundred and fifty pounds of batter, or three hundred pounds of cheese.

If such are the facts, is it not important for farmers to examine the subject attentively, in all its bearings, in order to direct their course of feeding, in that way which will give them the greatest profit for their capital invested.

Taking the prices, from a fair average for a few years past, and they would show a great diffew years past, and they would show a great difference, first, in favor of selling milk; next, the making of butter and cheese—which differ but little from each other. little from each other; yet both of their greatly

This calculation shows such a difference in the produce of food, when fed to the different stock, that many farmers will exclaim, "this is a paper that cannot be depended upon." We are well aware that there cannot be any general system laid down but what must be governed by circumstances; but where any such calculation is made which leads practical farmers to investigate, much good is accomplished—as when they are convinced that keeping cows is more profitable than other stock, they will be sure to give such direc-tions as will lead to that result. It is one of those variations which can be made in the keeping of stock, without any risk; for should any change take place in the camaparative value of beef, milk, butter, or cheese, the change from dairy to beef would not be attended with loss, as dry and farrow cows would make excellent beef, and are good stock to fatten from pasture or stall-feeding.

THOMAS RAWLINS. THE MOST COMMON SAYING

Is that I would not give one bottle of Dr. SWAYNE'S Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, for half a dozen of any other preparation. I have tried all the popular ones, but this stands unrivaled for the cure of the following diseases, viz: Influenza, Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Spitting of Blood, Palpitation of the Heart, Wheoping Cough, Tickling and Rising sensation in the throat, Bronchitis,

Asthma, or weakness of the Neryous System or impaired Constitution arising from any

Decline, this medicine has not its equal. And when too much calomel or quinine has een used, this medicine will prevent its evil effect on the system, and repair the biliary functions .-As a proof of the above medicine giving great strength and clearness to the voice, a gentleman from one our large auctioneering esthblisements in Philadelphia, who has been using this Syrup, says that it is the greatest medicine to cry on he ever saw. Of course, the minister or lawyer, who have to exert their voices, would be equally benefitted. Reference will be given to the auctioneer, by calling at my office. Caution.—All preparations from this valuable tree, except the original Doct. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, are fictitious and counterleit. Prepared only by Doct. Swayne, whose office is now removed to N. W. corner of TThe above valuable Compound Syrup is for
